A large protractor was needed so these were created and pasted onto several sheets of paper before cutting out. Works better on cardboard and also works well on transparencies